Federal changes will result in cost increases for many customers during Open Enrollment this fall.

The federal government has many changes planned that will likely mean a significant increase in the cost of your health coverage for 2026 – largely by drastically reducing the amount of financial assistance you may qualify for, this year and in the future.

Certain eligibility categories, the paperwork you may need to provide, and the time you have to do so have changed, too.

Learn more about these changes — and about how we're working to minimize their impact on our customers — at healthsourceri.com/stayconnected.
